For the quarter, Glencore and Activision were among the largest contributors. Glencore’s business saw gains on the back of inflation and increasing commodity prices. Activision made headlines when Microsoft announced an acquisition of the gaming platform. On the other hand, Meta Platforms (aka, Facebook) was dragged down after the company announced a weaker than expected outlook and its first decline in daily users. Naspers and Prosus, the Fund’s Tencent look-through investments were hindered due to a widening discount and partly due to the Chinese market uncertainty.⁴

Recently, Chinese internet related names have experienced headwinds, with shares prices being negatively impacted by a cornucopia of bad news including increased regulatory scrutiny, heightened competition, a slowing economy, and most recently Covid lockdowns. On the positive side we think these headwinds are largely priced in, and our exposure, as of March 31, 2022, of approximately 4.9% affords us ownership of a collection of good digitally enabled businesses trading at attractive valuations. Nonetheless we are cognizant of newly emerging geopolitical risks that were not on our radar several years ago, and for that reason we have not added to the positions thus far this year.

On the other hand, we have used market weakness to opportunistically build positions in what market commentators would describe as growth stocks across the United States and Europe. We don't know what the future holds over the coming three to four quarters for these names, but if we are right (and there is no guarantee we are) we think we are buying at multiples that will make these names look like value stocks on traditional metrics three to four years in the future. However, we acknowledge these companies participate in dynamic markets that result in greater degrees of uncertainty than many of our other holdings, and as such have limited concentration in any single name and to the group as a whole.

Closing

One closing thought.

The tragedy in Ukraine leaves us few words that haven't already been said. Our direct exposure to Russia still stands at 0%, with indirect revenue exposure of less than 1%. This, however, bears far less relevance than the larger humanitarian crisis that continues to unfold with uncertainty. Our thoughts are with those whose families and friends live in Ukraine.

Respectfully submitted,

Important Disclosures

This Commentary is for informational and discussion purposes only and does not constitute, and should not be construed as, an offer or solicitation for the purchase or sale of any securities, products or services discussed, and neither does it provide investment advice. Any such offer or solicitation shall only be made pursuant to the Fund's Prospectus, which supersedes the information contained herein in its entirety. These materials are not intended for distribution to, or use by, any person or entity in any jurisdiction or country where such distribution or use is contrary to local law or regulation.

The statements contained herein reflect the opinions of the portfolio manager as of the date written and are subject to change without notice. These views may differ from other portfolio managers and analysts of the firm as a whole and are not intended to be a forecast of future events, a guarantee of future results or investment advice. The information and data herein has been prepared from sources believed reliable, but the accuracy and completeness of the information cannot be guaranteed and is not a complete summary or statement of all available data.

Certain statements herein may be forward-looking and/or based on current expectations, projections, and information currently available to FPA. While we believe we have a reasonable basis for our comments and we have confidence in our opinions, actual results may differ from those we anticipate. We cannot assure future results and disclaim any obligation to update or alter any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events, or otherwise. Such statements may or may not be accurate over the long-term. Statistical data or references thereto were taken from sources which we deem to be reliable, but their accuracy cannot be guaranteed.

The Fund is new with limited operating history. Past performance does not guarantee future results. The Fund's net asset value and investment return will fluctuate based upon changes in the value of its portfolio securities. There is no assurance that the Fund will achieve its investment objective, and an investment in the Fund is not by itself a complete or balanced investment program. For a complete description of the Fund's principal investment risks please refer to the prospectus.

Shares of the Fund are bought and sold at market price (not NAV) and are not individually redeemed from the Fund. Because ETFs trade like stocks, the Fund may trade at prices above or below the ETF's NAV. While the shares of ETFs are tradable on secondary markets, they may not readily trade in all market conditions and may trade at significant discounts in periods of market stress. Brokerage commissions and ETF expenses will reduce returns.

An investment in the Fund is speculative and entails substantial risks. Portfolio composition will change due to ongoing management of the Fund. References to individual securities or sectors are for informational purposes only and should not be construed as recommendations by the Fund, the portfolio managers, FPA, or the distributor (as applicable), and any information provided is not a sufficient basis upon which to make an investment decision. It should not be assumed that future investments will be profitable or will equal the performance of any security or sector discussed.

It is important to remember that there are risks inherent in any investment and there is no assurance that any investment or asset class will provide positive performance over time. Capital markets are volatile and can decline significantly in response to adverse issuer, political, regulatory, market, or economic developments. The Fund purchases foreign securities, including American Depository Receipts (ADRs) and other depository receipts, which are subject to interest rate, currency exchange rate, economic and political risks; this may be enhanced when investing in emerging markets. Non-U.S. investing presents additional risks such as the potential for adverse political, currency, economic, social or regulatory developments in a country including lack of liquidity, excessive taxation, and differing legal and accounting standards. These risks are magnified in emerging and frontier markets. In addition, while we believe investing in companies with less liquidity has the potential to add alpha on the upside, such names are also more subject to price volatility on the downside.

Small and mid-cap stocks involve greater risks and they can fluctuate in price more than larger company stocks. You risk paying more for a security than you received from its sale. Groups of stocks, such as value and growth, go in and out of favor which may cause certain funds to underperform other equity funds.

Value style investing presents the risk that the holdings or securities may never reach their full market value because the market fails to recognize what the portfolio management team considers the true business value or because the portfolio management team has misjudged those values. In addition, value style investing may fall out of favor and underperform growth or other style investing during given periods.

The Fund may lack diversification, thereby increasing the risk of loss, and the Fund's performance may be volatile. As a result, an investor could lose all or a substantial amount of its investment.
